The 10th Anniversary AGM was successfully held at Bulimba Bowls Club, and was well supported by many members. Thank you to Life Member Brian Daley and his wife Barbara for their support in conducting this event. Certificates of Appreciation were presented to the Club; to Frank Maloney, who stood down from the committee after 10 years; and to Damien Tyrell, outgoing Welfare Officer. Thank you to you both for your support while on the committee. Congratulations to Peter Thompson, 21st VM and Barry Teal, 10th Clerk for being voted onto the committee, and Kevin Noon, 14.5th Musician who accepted the Welfare Officer role.

Harry Hoger, Dafna Humbler Bulimba Bowls Club, Brian Daley

The next reunion, in Canberra in 2018, will focus on our Association leading the Anzac Day March. More details will become available early next year. Thank you to every one for your continuing support; make December a safe and joyous time. Take care.

Vale – Mick Mace

By Jim Davis Hon Secretary, RAE Association (Vic) Inc.

I am sorry to say that I am the bearer of sad news in that Mick Mace passed away on 11th October 2016 at the Mornington Rehab facility – he was 94 years of age. His family advised me that he slipped away peacefully. I am so pleased that I recently had the opportunity of catching up with Mick but it certainly does not make it any easier to be receiving news like this.

Mick was an Engineer through and through and a wonderful example of a Sapper – he loved the RAE with a passion. A veteran of WW2, Vietnam and Borneo, there is an oval at Balcombe named Mace Oval which has the following explanation:

“Sergeant Ray (Mick) Mace BEM (M), MM, an instructor at the Balcombe Army Apprentices School, borrowed a D4 bulldozer and literally demolished a hill in order to construct an oval for the apprentices. He carried out this work in his own time, after normal hours.”

Mick your duty has been done to the highest possible standard, you have trained many young sappers in the skills of your trade so you can now park that machine and enjoy a well-deserved rest. It was a pleasure to have known you Mick – thank you. UBIQUE

50th Anniversary of the battle of Long Tan

Canberra commemoration

By Jeff Heron, 21st Radio Mech, Editor
moderator@austarmyapprentice.org

Fifty years ago, on 18th August 1966, the M113 APCs of 3 Tp, 1 APC Sqn and A Coy, 6 RAR relieved D Coy and helped end the battle of Long Tan, Phuoc Tuy Province, South Vietnam. Many Apprentices will remember well the ubiquitous tracked vehicles that, in no small way, saved the survivors of

D Coy from almost certain and complete destruction.

On 18th August 2016, the battle was commemorated throughout Australia and overseas. The Canberra service included addresses from the Governor-General, His Excellency General the Honourable Sir Peter Cosgrove AK MC (Retd), himself a decorated Vietnam Veteran, and the Prime Minister, The Honourable Malcolm Turnbull MP.

Starting at 10 am with a flyover by a RAAF Hercules C-130, the service concluded after another flyover by two B-52s, two Douglas DC-3s, two de Havilland DHC-4 Caribou, an UH-1 Iroquois, a Bell H-13 Sioux and a Cessna 0-2 Skymaster.

In his address, the Governor-General said "Vietnam veterans were unique among Australia's returned military personnel, and the day was a chance to pay tribute to all those who served in the conflict."

Also, on Long Tan Day, as part of the Service at the SME Memorial, Frank Poole 10th Intake laid a wreath in recognition of the three RAE Apprentices who lost their lives in the Vietnam conflict. This is a regular event when the AAAA recognises the ultimate sacrifice made by Apprentices.

Vietnam Calling-----Long Tan 18th Aug 1966

A poem by Del Smith, 25th April 2016 – thanks Del

No kiss goodbye was ours to share

The plane it stood close by

The Army always in control

So we watched through tear filled eyes.

With little hands in each of mine

And another not yet born

We watched him board in a line of green

Our hands then waved goodbye.

For those of us always left behind

With our loved ones overseas

Who did we go to talk to

To put our minds at ease.

A photo on the mantelpiece

Was all we had to share

From a loving husband to his wife

And for sons to show he cared.

We battled on from dawn to dusk

As the weeks slipped slowly by

Forever watching for the mail

Either way we simply cried.

The day our eldest son turned five

And our baby that month born

We heard the news from Vietnam

How a battle raged at dawn.

For those of us so far away

We could only hope and pray

That those ones very dear to us

Would return to us some day.

He did, thank God, come home to us

What a sad and happy day

Whatever he had seen and heard

Is forever stored away.

The years since then have slipped on by

And our family since has grown

For marching now on Anzac Day

He is never on his own.

In her letter to the President, Del wrote that her husband Neville was an 8th Intake VM and served in Vietnam from May 66 to May 67. Neville served with HQ 1st Aust Task Force, at Nui Dat in Phuoc Tuy Province between April 66 and December 71. The first line of the poem is a reference to the fact that Del and Neville didn't kiss goodbye when he left for Vietnam – "He was marched out to a marquee from which he went out the other side to board the plane ... (he is never to leave the house these days without giving me a goodbye kiss)."

Eulogy, Robert Joseph Burton 'Shack' House 9th F&T, from our Trustee, Jim Hislop, 9th F&T

On the 27th August 2016, those of Robert House's original Intake who were well enough to travel, gathered at the Seymour Cemetery to lay a small headstone and plaque to commemorate his untimely accidental death on 28th August 1958. It had been of great concern that a soldier killed whilst on official leave was not provided with a headstone. After some unsuccessful research, it was decided that his old mates would correct this situation. For a more detailed story, please visit the AAAA Website at <http://austarmyapprentice.org/eulogies/>

WO2 Jack Guido (Bull) Abadene Metalwork Wing Instructor, AAS Balcombe, recollections by Harry Cole, 7th VM heritage@austarmyapprentice.org

There were very few VM or F&T Apprentices at Balcombe in the 1950s who didn't attend the sometimes terrifying instruction periods by WO2 "Bull" Abadene during their trade training. He was a large framed, well-built man, who towered over the smaller Apprentices and he roared like a bull, hence the nickname of "Bull" Abadene.

Surprisingly, most of us thought his surname was Aberdeen and he was of Scottish heritage, but it has recently come to light that he was born to Italian parents in Katanning, WA in 1910. His family name was Abbadini and they all returned to Brescia, Italy in 1920, but Jack returned to WA in 1930 on his own.

Jack served in the AIF in WW2 as an Italian interpreter and was sent to Europe with the rank of Sgt after VP Day to escort those repatriated Italian POWs returning home from various camps in Australia. He was posted to the AAS Balcombe as a WO2 trade instructor in 1950 and remained there until 1959/1960 when he retired from the Army.

It is recorded that he married an Australian girl in Leonora, WA when he was 30 but, some years later when he was posted to AAS Balcombe, she chose to stay in WA. They were later divorced.

Although a good instructor, he was prone to be a bit irrational when something upset him and this meant a flying missile like a ball pein hammer or something equally as damaging to the Apprentice who was not paying attention and, if you were not quick enough to duck, you suffered the consequence of a bad bruise or worse. There was a time when he threw a vice at someone who, fortunately, was quick enough to move out of the way, and it went completely through the wooden wall leaving a large hole.

Jim Hislop (9th Intake F&T) remembered the time when Bull, who was holding a length of 4x2, chased him around the classroom until he managed to escape out the door. Such was his reputation that you were the most attentive Apprentice in his class.

It is said Bull Abadene crewed on a fishing boat for some years at Cowes, Vic after his retirement. A copy of his death certificate indicates he passed away on 24th June 1974 at Cowes, aged 64. Being a heavy smoker most of his life, he suffered from carcinoma of the lungs for the last 12 months of his life. He is buried at the Phillip Island cemetery.

It is worth noting that, at Balcombe in the early 1950s, staff were mainly from WW2 areas of action, including senior command staff and the majority of Army instructors. Although discipline was tough, it was also an interesting period to be there.

Education doesn't have to stop when you retire

From Barry Teal, 10th Clerk, Past President

This is a photograph of my graduation from Deakin University in April this year. As a 10th Intake Apprentice, I am in my 77th year, but I recently gained a BA with Distinction. I was then invited to do 'Honours', something that would rank in the minds of some as a total waste of time.

I hold a different view and, should you choose to include this in The Apprentice About, it may give to others, as it did for me, a reason for being, and to face down a fairly serious health issue and win.

GH Gray's design for a tank and transporter

Readers may remember the May 2016 edition of TAA, in which we featured 22nd Radio Mech, Don Gray's father's design for a model self-transporting tank. On Saturday, 5th August 2016, the Canberra Times covered the 50th anniversary of the day George Gray, Gough Whitlam's Labor opposition spokesperson on Defence, presented the design to the Holt government's Minister for the Army, Malcolm Fraser.

Access. Following my discussions with COL MacLean, Comdt ATLC, and with the President and Membership Secretary, I proposed to the Comdt ATLC that the Association issue members with a membership card. The card would have conditions by which members could access the Memorial without having to provide notice to the Museum. The Museum would not have to arrange escorts and the card would allow access on any day, not just when the Museum was open and an escort available. COL MacLean advised that, although he is sympathetic, he has no discretion in security access procedures to bases. He did, however, suggest that members could apply for a red uncleared community area only pass and attached an application form. I will apply and, if successful, I will place the details on our Web site.

The Intake Pathway. Planning is progressing with the pathway, and ASEME will probably be able to assist with the construction, which will save us some expense and provide ASEME trainees with a practical exercise as part of their course. A detailed report of my site visit with WO1 Johnson is with the recent AGM minutes on our Web site.

As usual, my personal thanks for the assistance and support provided by Greg Mulcahy and Jim Hislop. Without this help, the Memorial would be difficult to manage. Thank you to both of you.

Remembrance Avenue Plaques at Latchford Barracks. "Following an inventory of the trees and plaques in the Remembrance Avenue at Latchford, some of the plaques were found to be missing. If any of these have been souvenired and the person/s holding them feels so inclined, their return would be appreciated. Missing are Intake plaques for the 4th, 29th, 31st and 41st intakes and KIA plaques for Ray Nichols (1st), Bruce Henderson (8th), Kevin Jones (8th), John Hall (11th) and Anthony Colohann (13th).

Canberra Region Lunch 22nd Sep 2016 By Frank Poole, 10th Architectural Draughtsman memorial@austarmyapprentice.org

As a one-off change from our usual watering hole at the Golden King Restaurant, this time it was Italian, on the north side rather than the south and on a Thursday rather than a Wednesday. The general consensus of the 21 attending was that the venue overlooking the Belconnen Lake was very attractive but the menu and food was better at the Golden King.

Thanks to Kevin Noon, a family BBQ was arranged for Sunday 13th November at the RMC Sgts Mess.

Launch of the Melba Rose Garden at Beleura House and Garden – 13th Oct 2016

The Trustees of the Tallis Foundation recently invited representatives of the Association to Beleura to celebrate the launch of the Dame Nellie Melba Rose by Sarah Gardenia Seymour. The event, celebrating the 150th anniversary of the birth of Dame Nellie, included a recital by scholars of the Melba Opera Trust, followed by lunch. October 13th was the date that Dame Nellie Melba made her debut in Brussels in 1886 and announced her retirement in Melbourne in 1924. Other than its close proximity to Balcombe, at Mornington, there is a special connection with the Army Apprentices School. A feature at the centre of the Rose Garden is a flagpole, which came from Balcombe after the School closed. John Sutherland (a gardener, housekeeper and caretaker at Belerua for over 30 years from 1976) and Bruce Martin gifted the flagpole, from the Parade Ground, which came into their possession after the Camp closed.

Aug 2016 Newsletter competition – what was wrong with this photo?

Vic Blake, 21st VM was first to correctly identify that the photo was reversed. Easy clues were the lanyard on the Apprentice's left sleeve and his beret reversed. Also, the Leopard's spotlight is on the wrong side of the gun. Vic's SPAASSM DVD has been mailed to him. And Jeff Dagan, 43rd F&T also received a DVD as the first hard copy Newsletter recipient with the correct answer. Well done to all those who worked it out. There is no SPAASSM competition in this edition.

Vic's reply

"Hi Jeff, I just wanted to say that I have been enthralled with the DVD. Thanks so much and well done those who drive the SPAASSM without whom a valuable and significant part of military history would be lost and forgotten forever. Cheers, Vic Blake"

Thanks Vic. We plan to make the SPAASSM collection available on-line one day but, in the meantime, for others who want a copy of the SPAASSM DVD and can't take the chance that you'll be the winner of this edition's competition, all you have to do is order one from: merchandise@austarmyapprentice.org.

Book introduction, A Twist in the POGO's Tail

ISBN – 9780994 559104

Intro from Wally Rotow, 18th Radio Mech; details from Derek Smith, 18th Clerk

Wally writes: "One of the 18th Apprentices, Derek V. Smith (a Clerk), has published a book which he has asked me if you could possibly put it up on the Website and in the next Newsletter. Derek writes about his time at AAS and his multiple tours to Vietnam. I have read the book and it's well written and brings back many memories of life at AAS and in the Army generally. Derek, in the most part, kept a diary so his recollections don't just rely on memory."

Derek tells us that: "In 1970, I spent a couple of months at HQ AFV and, one day, took a couple of chaps for a bit of a swan up to Bien Hoa. I had access to a US Navy jeep. One of those chaps was Bob Schroeder, who appears in one of the pics in the book - page 113. Bob was a 17th Intake Clerk."

Derek expands as follows: "The 'self-published' book is 132 pages, with 15 chapters, 3 appendixes and 6 maps and has taken him about 5 years to produce. He has pledged in the book to give all profits to the ethnic minority (Montagnard) orphanages that he and his family have been supporting since 2004. The orphanages are located in Kon Tum, Central Highlands, Vietnam (www.askatvso.com).

The foreword was written by LTGEN John Sanderson, AC, (ret'd) former Chief of Army and Governor of WA.

Much detail for this book has been drawn from diaries that Derek kept, particularly in 1966/67 and 1969/70. There are numerous references in the footnotes, a list of abbreviations in the back, and many photographs.

Covering the period of his early childhood including primary school, high school, cubs, scouts and Army cadets, it then travels into his time in the Army beginning at the Army Apprentices School, Balcombe, Victoria where he trained as an Army Clerk. On graduation, he leads us to his posting as an Army Clerk in a Small Ship Sqn where he served on board a landing ship and a cargo ship from 1964 to 1967. In that time, Derek sailed to New Guinea and Vietnam three times each.

He leaves the Ships and is posted to the RAE Fd Sqns which, in 1969, see him back in Vietnam. He comes home in 1970 and then finds himself back in Vietnam again in 1971, which is where the book finishes.

Derek has attempted to include much of the humour that is typical of the Australian digger, but which is often not included in such stories. The title denotes what he was, a Clerk, but his story or TALE does have many twists and turns, including meeting the enemy, which finds this POGO feeling well out of his depth. It is a good read."

Derek will post the book to anyone wishing to buy one: cost including postage and packaging is $31.20. Contact Derek directly at: dvsmith@ozemail.com.au.

The Association badge

By Barry Teal, 10th Clerk, Past President

As we draw towards the end of our 10th year, it is useful to include a short story on why and how the Association badge came into being. Barry recalls, "the design for the current Association badge was formally accepted in 2011, making it over five years old at this year's AGM. That suggests there is potential for posterity of both the Association and its badge and, therefore, it is timely to place on record the thinking that underpinned the badge's design.

As President in 2011, it occurred to me that we were using the much 'fudged' AAS badge which, although full of wonderful memories for us all, didn't really reflect the Association's primary objectives. The AAS badge did not serve the Association well because the membership effectively came from distinctly separate streams, caused by the move from Balcombe to Bonegilla. Our 'mob' fell into two camps, either Balcombe or Bonegilla, and more often by coincidence than continuity could the two connect at the all-important cultural heritage level. The earnest belief that we had to bridge that gap was motivation to design a new badge that would have to turn the Organisation's head away from, but without losing the cohesion of, our separate and respective Schools.

The new badge needed to be copyright capable and, therefore, contain elements that were defined and discrete. I chose to use a facsimile of the drive sprocket of a Centurion tank. The actual sprocket has 16 teeth but the badge geometry only allowed, and indeed only needed, 12 to accommodate the other elements. More compelling at the time was the number of VMs who had died of cancer, which some attributed to excessive exposure to benzene. So, because the main armoured fighting vehicle at the time of their exposure was the 'Cent' Mk 3 and 5, it seemed to be connectively appropriate.

Although we may be inclined to attach some meaning to this symbol, the real work for the sprocket was firstly to establish a definitive perimeter pattern and frame on which to build the rest of the badge and secondly to provide space for a unifying message. Obviously, the new badge would also have to carry the AAS badge elements, including the torch of learning and the swords on the cross with the appropriate crown surmounted. The layout was balanced and provided substantial looking elements of the soldier tradesman under the dominant torch of learning. BUT, ABOVE ALL the background provided a space for an annular ring of green and gold to carry the words 'Balcombe' and 'Bonegilla', thus specifically tying the two Schools together on the one badge. Copyright for the badge was formally gifted to the Association in 2011 – long may they both endure."

Apprentices “fast facts”

Statistics supplied by Wally Rotow 18th Radio Mech

AAS highest achieving intakes

Many AAS intakes can lay claim to being the highest achievers, based on the numbers who have risen to high ranks. Direct comparison is not fair – early intakes did not have the same opportunities as later intakes, especially during the Vietnam era; however, based on simple raw data, the most WOs came from the 19th Intake with 49 (25.7% of the class). Next were the 18th (47 – 25.1%) and then the 25th (44 – 23.9%). The top five intakes producing WO2s or higher were: 18th (74 – 39.5%), 19th (73 – 38.4 %), 17th (59 – 35.1%), 15th (41 – 3 4.4%) and 25th (63 – 34.2%).

Intakes producing the most officers were: 15th (21 – 17.6%), 13th (21 – 14.6%) and 18th (27 – 14.4%). From a large intake (274) the most prolific intake is the 35th; 34 have become officers, many of very senior rank: 1 x MAJGEN, 1 x BRIG, 4 x COLs and 7 x LTCOLs. The 9th was next highest with 1 x COL and 8 x LTCOLs.

The highest ranking Apprentice to date is LTGEN Ken Gillespie, 23rd Bricklayer, past AAAA Patron, and Chief of Army from 2008 until his retirement in 2011. And the Apprentice to reach WO1 in the shortest time (age 27) is Hanna Andrews, a 17th Radio Mechanic.

Overseas operational service

Did you know that at least 2563 Apprentices have participated on overseas operational service, both warlike and non-warlike, with some Apprentices serving on multiple operations? Apprentices have served in 25 theatres from Afghanistan to Western Sahara. This includes the most (1125) who served in Vietnam, three in Kashmir and Mozambique and the least (two) in Ethiopia and Sudan. Another interesting statistic is that 15 Apprentices from the 1st to the 21st Intakes served in the Australian Army Training Team Vietnam (AATTV). Want more? These and other facts on Staffing, Appointments and Awards and AAS Graduation Parades can be viewed at: <http://austarmyapprentice.org/about/some-facts-and-figures/>.
